

Title:

The Space between my home and your home.

This piece is designed to bridge the space between the lack of knowledge and understanding of where reserves are located in Ontario. Showing the whereabouts of First Nations reserves, the viewer can localize their own home and the problematic conditions of our Aboriginal communities. The current housing crisis in the northern Cree Community of Attawapiskat, and the 2011 boil water advisories in Six Nations near Hamilton are examples of places in Ontario where few people know the location. By understanding the space and whereabouts of these reserves we can begin to bridge the gap between communities and hopefully work together as a province to enforce change.
